

— The Story —

Author G. Cordero-Moss was looking for an editor before publishing her academic work.

Cordero-Moss had experienced several issues with editors in the past. "[Previous] editors needed to be followed up closely; their comments or proposals were not always consistent and sometimes had an impact on the text's original meaning."

— The Goal —

Cordero-Moss needed consistent, quality editing for manuscripts with several contributors.

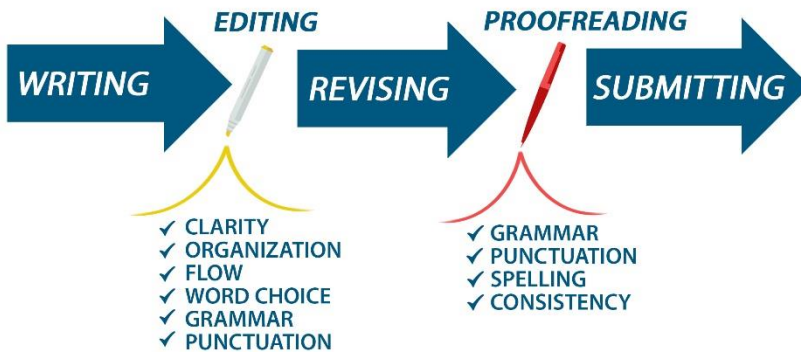

As English is not her first language, Cordero-Moss required editing to have her language checked to ensure it complied with her publisher's standards. She also needed consistent editing for texts written by multiple authors.

— The Solution —

Scribendi's ESL Academic Editing services helped ensure consistent, accurate editing.

Scribendi allows customers to request their favorite editors and holds all editors to the highest standards. Cordero-Moss gladly recommends Scribendi to her peers: "The quality is good; the service is reliable."

RESEARCHING → PUBLISHING

The publisher, Cambridge University Press, which holds a very high standard of quality, commented that they seldom had received a text in such a good shape and with so little need for editing.
